What to do in an emergency

In emergency situations the young person must attend the nearest 24 hour A&E unit or call 999

When you get to A&E, a health professional will assess the young person

If the child or young person needs ongoing mental health input, a referral to the appropriate team will be made by the assessing professional

Worried about a child or young person?

If you are worried about the welfare or safety of a child or young person, it is very important that you contact First Response on 0117 903 6444 or via their website

Concerned about a potential eating disorder?

Eating disorders are serious mental health problems and it is vital that children and young people with eating disorders and their families and carers can access effective help quickly. If you are concerned about a child, seek advice as soon as possible. Bristol CAMHS has a dedicated community eating disorder service and referrals can be made by the child’s GP or school.

If you consider the situation to be an emergency, please follow the ‘What to do in an emergency’ section above.
Introduction

This directory aims to be the single ‘go to’ place for information about children and young people’s emotional health in Bristol.

It provides a place for children and young people, their families and professionals to get quick, easy and direct access to up-to-date mental health information, including:

- Clear, accurate information about support and services available in Bristol
- Information about a range of common mental health problems such as anxiety and stress
- Self-help tools and information including downloadable resources

Searching online is often now the first way people look for information when they, or the people they care for or support, need help. Bristol is committed to improving access to online information and resources, in particular in the area of mental health and this directory is part of a long-term plan to make digital choices available for people in the area who want to improve their wellbeing.

Schools may benefit from accessing MindEd. Parents may benefit from accessing Young Minds.

You can contact the team with any comments/feedback about the directory or with any ideas at: bristolccg.cypehbristol@nhs.net. Unfortunately, we are unable to respond to queries about individual situations or give advice.

Please note, this publication is designed to offer a broad overview of the main emotional health and wellbeing services available to young people aged 0-25 and their families. It is not intended to be a comprehensive directory of all services.

We cannot guarantee the quality of all the services and resources listed here so we advise young people, their families and carers to make their own assessments of quality and suitability for their specific purposes.

The information is correct at the time of publication and is updated annually.

Universal Services

Children and young people may experience anxiety or difficulties in response to life events or changes in circumstances which are generally temporary episodes between otherwise good emotional health and wellbeing. Many of these children can find appropriate support and advice through existing networks (e.g. family and friends) or via services that are open to all children and young people (’universal services’) like health services and schools/college.

| Children’s Centres | Bristol Libraries | First Response | General Practice | Young Carers Service, Carers Support Centre | Brook | Kooth | Off the Record | The Prince’s Trust |
Targeted Services

There is a range of services that are ‘non-medical’ and are often community based, that identify and support children with emotional / mental health difficulties with the aim of intervening earlier to prevent escalation of need and risk. Some of these services may target specific groups of children and young people. Many offer a range of skills and therapies to engage and support children and young people.

Specialist Services

There may be occasions where some children and young people need support from specialist mental health services where there are significant concerns related to their mental / emotional health or psychological wellbeing, or the concerns are of a high risk / urgent nature. CAMHS is the main Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service for children and young people aged 0-18 and is provided by the NHS in Bristol For referral to CAMHS, the difficulties must be severe enough to significantly impact on day to day/ or family functioning to be beyond the remit and experience of primary care services.

The Bristol Drugs Project, M32 youth group enables children and young people to meet with those in similar family situations. They can talk to youth workers and volunteers and be positive role models. The aim of the group is to have fun, try new things in order to build confidence and self-esteem.

The Bristol Drugs Project mentoring programme is for children and young people who would benefit from one-to-one contact. They have a mentor for one year and are seen on a weekly basis. The way the activity budget is spent is decided by the service users.

The service aims to:

- Support young people that are affected by parental substance misuse
- Help build confidence, self-esteem and resilience
- Give experience of positive role models
- Interact with other young people affected by parental substance misuse
- Give experience eating together
- Get children and young people to try new things, e.g. drama, cooking and gardening
- Give respite from family home.

Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS) are teams of mental health professionals who work with children and young people with emotional, behavioural or mental health difficulties. There are also CAMHS Primary Mental Health Specialists working in other settings such as schools, and local authority social care and Families in Focus teams.

All CAMHS teams use a system for managing waiting times. Children/young people and parent(s)/carer(s) can be seen individually. Sometimes, one appointment is enough to enable someone to cope better with their difficulties, but if further appointments are needed they will work in partnership to offer on going therapeutic interventions.

This is a specialist drug and alcohol treatment service for young people under 18 who have developed substance misuse problems. Referrals are from professionals working with young people, such as GPs and other health professionals or other drug and alcohol services.

The service aims to:

• Help young people stabilise and ultimately abstain from drug and alcohol use
• Provide additional support to those approaching their 18th birthday as part of their transition to adult treatment services
• Provide substance misuse treatment that is culturally appropriate and suitable to meet the diverse needs of the service user group.
• Have child/young person centred assessments and care planned support including, pharmacological interventions (e.g. opiate detoxification, substitute prescribing and harm reduction services), psychological therapies (e.g. counselling, brief solution focused therapy, motivational interviewing) harm reduction and, where appropriate, work with families
• Ensure all work is delivered within an integrated multi-agency care planned approach
• Deliver a mixture of office-based sessions and outreach sessions
• Ensure close liaison with a range of agencies and families where appropriate
• Have close supervision of substitute prescribing if required.

Support for young carers aged 8-18 years and young adult carers aged 16 – 25 years. Young carers are people who look after someone in their family who has a disability, a long term illness or misuses drugs or alcohol. The service is for carers who are struggling due to their caring responsibilities. The Young Carers Service gives information and signposting, offers fun activities, workshops, mentoring and chances to be around other young people with caring responsibilities.

The service has a referral process to help them understand a family’s circumstances and make sure they are the right organisation to offer support. They take referrals from family members or professionals and are commissioned to provide the statutory Young Carers Assessment for Bristol City Council.

The group also works in partnership with schools and further education: giving advice, training, information, resources and support; so that they can establish their own support systems for young people.

The aim of the service is to:

- Support and understand the cared-for family member’s condition
- Give one-to-one support for high need identified young carers
- Access to breaks from caring to allow respite
- Target well-being sessions run bi-annually
- Offer a mentoring scheme with individually identified focus, which can include active support with anxiety and depression
- Give a whole family approach assessment which can lead to specialist emotional health and wellbeing signposting.

Children’s Centres offer a wide variety of free support for families with young children living in Bristol and anyone who is a parent or expecting a baby. Staff are welcoming and can make home visits to make people feel comfortable before going to the centre for the first time. There are nursery places for 2, 3 and 4 year olds (sometimes for babies too) advice about accessing benefits, how to go into training and employment, informal groups to help with leading a healthy lifestyle and an opportunity to get to know other local young parents.

The staff in the Children’s Centre can provide support for people who are feeling anxious about being a new parent or who are worried that they are finding it difficult to cope with a young child. They can also help with financial, lifestyle or relationship concerns with specialist support.

First Response is the single point of access for Families in Focus Services and Children’s Social Care Services (Safeguarding Units) within Bristol City Council. They act as the first point of contact for all concerns about children’s welfare requiring a social work service, and for requests for support for Children and Families in need of Families in Focus services.

Emotional health and wellbeing (EHWB) issues should usually be addressed through universal and targeted services. In complex or higher risk cases, First Response can refer into social work Safeguarding Units or to Families in Focus services when young people and their families are in need of targeted help and support. First Response involvement in EHWB would usually be when there are significant family or social difficulties which are affecting a child or young person’s safety, stability or recovery. This would usually be alongside CAMHS or other specialist service involvement.

Off the Record (OTR) is a mental health social movement by and for young people aged 11-25 living in Bristol and South Gloucestershire. OTR provides free, confidential and self-referral mental health information and services and is also mobilised to support, promote and defend the mental health, rights and social position of young people.

Support available
OTR runs various projects across Bristol and South Gloucestershire, all designed with the help of young people, and all of them are delivered by a team of super-friendly staff and volunteers.

These include projects such as:

Resilience Lab - Fun and informal stress management and self-help workshops for anyone who wants to learn more about good self-care.

Inspiration Works - A programme of creative and arts-based workshops to help promote good mental health and wellbeing.

The Mentality Project - A volunteering project that uses social action to challenge the stigma, discrimination and wider social inequalities around young people’s mental health. OTR also offers specialist support to LGBTQ+ young people, outreach into schools, support for young people experiencing self-harm and bullying, and much more.

Age range 11 – 25 years

Referral route

Young people can access OTR via two routes:
By signing up directly to a group, project or service on OTR’s website. By coming along to an OTR Hub – a safe and relaxed drop-in space to find out more about what OTR offers; no appointments needed. Young people can meet OTR’s team and discover more about mental health, self-care, and what services OTR has on offer.

PAPYRUS Prevention of Young Suicide

PAPYRUS is the national charity for the prevention of young suicide. They draw from the experience of many who have been touched personally by young suicide across the UK and speak on their behalf in their campaigns and in their quest to save young lives. Together they believe that with appropriate support and education, many young suicides can be prevented.

Papyrus deliver awareness and prevention training, provide confidential support and suicide intervention through HOPELineUK, campaign and influence national policy, and empower young people to lead suicide prevention activities in their own communities.

The PAPYRUS HOPELineUK is a confidential support and advice service for:

- Young people under the age of 35 who may be having thoughts of suicide
- Anyone concerned that a young person may be having thoughts of suicide
- A HOPELineUK advisor will listen to things that are happening in someone’s life that are contributing to their thoughts of suicide and provide advice about how to cope and where to get help.
- HOPELineUK advisors offer advice on how to talk about suicide and how best to support someone.

The Prince’s Trust works with young people aged 13-30 years who are unemployed or struggling in education. It provides programmes that support young people to move into education, training, employment or self-employment.

The Trust runs a selection of programmes which aim to develop young people’s confidence, qualifications, independent living skills, experience and employability across a wide range of sectors.

- Anyone aged 16-30 years who is working less than 16 hours a week or in education less than 12 hours a week.
- Anyone aged 11-16 years who is not likely to achieve five GCSEs. The under 16s provision works directly with schools, therefore does not take direct self-referrals for this programme.
- The Trust helps people who are unemployed, lacking in confidence, care leavers, single parents, those who have mental health issues or who didn’t do so well in school.

All our services offer vulnerable young people one-to-one support in a safe place to be listened to and taken seriously.

Advocates can support children and young people to be listened to in their meetings or to make a complaint, whether formal or informal. They empower young people to problem solve and have a say in decisions that affect their lives. They help build confidence and improve life skills.

Independent visitor matches can last over several years and allow children the opportunity to enjoy fun activities whilst building a lasting and positive relationship. It gives them something to look forward to and a person who is giving up their time just for them. The visiting service enhances the emotional health and wellbeing of the child, building confidence, resilience and improving social and life skills.

- Advocacy for children over 12 subject to child protection plans
- Advocacy for children in care
- Advocacy for Care Leavers
- Independent visitors for children in care aged 7 to 17 years
- Participation services for children in care

Bristol City Council’s Healthy Schools Team

Bristol City Council’s Healthy Schools Team supports schools that want to improve the health and wellbeing of their pupils, staff and local community.

The team run an awards programme and have a number of ‘badges’ focused on different health related topics which schools can work towards, including a mental health and wellbeing badge; an evidence-based, whole school approach to positive mental health for staff and pupils.

To support school-based mental health leads, the team support locality-based mental health networks which run three times per year and provide a forum for sharing good practice, resources and guidance.

In addition, the emotional health and wellbeing toolkit is designed to support schools to identify potential sources of support, training and resources on a range of themes linked to promoting good emotional health and wellbeing for children and young people.
